

Healthcare Support Worker Award Winners 2024

Congratulations!

Healthcare Support Worker Award Winners 2024

Lifetime Achievement - Chris Swan

Nominated by Carol Rhodes for his exceptional 30-year contribution to the care of people with kidney failure across Derbyshire. Chris supports patients with home dialysis, provides training, embraces technology to improve services and launched a YouTube channel amongst so many other achievements.

Student of the Year - Emily Illsley

Nominated by Hannah Smith for doing everything to the maximum of her ability and to the highest standard. Since starting the Trainee Nurse Associate course in 2023, she has excelled in everything she has done so far and should be very proud. Kind, caring & compassionate, Emily is loved by colleagues and patients alike.

Going the Extra Mile - Olivia Small

Nominated by Vikki Burns for consistently providing outstanding care. Feedback is received most days from patients & relatives about how Olivia made their stay in hospital enjoyable. She is an amazing team player and reaches out to help colleagues in times of need.

Service User/Patient Choice - Aidan Murtagh

Nominated by Karen Clark for providing support to a patient to help his sporting ability since his amputations. AJ Mead plays para ice hockey at international level and Aidan helped re-model his sledge in a bespoke way, which helped him to win a gold medal! He works tirelessly behind the scenes in the prosthetic workshop ensuring manufacture is done to a high quality and in a timely way.

New to Care - Namneet Sanghera

Nominated by Angela Roome for being nothing short of exceptional whilst finding her feet in her role! A Clinical Apprentice, Namneet has thrived and shown a flair for care, demonstrating Trust values daily. She shows compassion with patients and families & daily high standards of care. She will make a fantastic nurse in the future.

Unsung Hero - Jessica Lees

Nominated by Karen Willdig for her selfless acts, organising the team and constantly seeking to make improvements to systems to make everyone's life easier. Jess is a very well loved and cherished team member.
