Work experience placements that create new opportunities

Careers at Joined Up Care Derbyshire has partnered up with Community Chesterfield, based at the University of Derby in the town, to enrich the learning experience of health and social care students by providing a range of meaningful work experience placements.

A range of opportunities have been made available to students age 17-plus across the voluntary and community sector, including placements supporting children and young people with disabilities and day centre placements providing activities for people with dementia.

The programme has proven to be a real success with 12 students having taken up a total of 960 hours of placement experience across multiple organisations.

Trish and Sasha, students from Buxton College, said: “You don’t know what health and social care is like until you actually experience it. This has been better than we expected, more fun and relaxed than we thought. The staff are amazing here, really caring and have included us. It’s a great atmosphere and we feel very comfortable now. We’ve thought about working in health and social care more since being here, especially working for EMH (East Midlands Housing).”

The Careers team hopes to be able to continue with this partnership to create more opportunities for young people to experience valuable volunteering and work experience placements.

GP receptionist skills programme launched

Following on from previous joint system working for administration posts, we developed a two-week comprehensive programme in June for candidates to gain the knowledge, skills and behaviours required to work within these settings.

This programme included:

- Dedicated pathway support for candidates
- Employability skills
- A recognised L2 customer service qualification
- Industry work placements
- A guaranteed interview.

Learn at Work Week success

We celebrated Learn at Work week in May - we met with many colleagues across the Derbyshire system and delivered apprenticeship information sessions, interview and application support and development briefings. We attended health and social care career events, in partnership with Derby County Community Trust, where we saw more than 1,100 career and education seekers. We rounded the week off with hints and tips across social media on what a career in health and social care could offer.

We love running these events and meeting so many colleagues and future colleagues too. Anything else that you would like to see across our channels, please get in touch via our email address: ddicb.joinedupcareers@nhs.net

Finding out healthcare support worker views

Health Education England is running a survey aimed at all NHS healthcare support workers in Derby and Derbyshire that have started employment since December 2020. We want to hear views on the recruitment process, experience and development. The aim is to ensure that our healthcare support workers are nurtured, developed and supported to do the fantastic work they deliver day in, day out.

Aligning apprenticeship pay and benefits

As a joined up system, we are working together to achieve an agreed apprenticeship alignment offer across Derby and Derbyshire. This will mean that all apprentices in Derby and Derbyshire in the health and social care workforce will have a clear understanding of what to expect from their apprenticeship, including, a pay range, benefits, opportunities and progression. The alignment group met in May with colleagues across East Midlands to learn and share best practice across the sector.

Unlocking new possibilities and widening participation

Step Into Work, on behalf of Careers at Joined Up Care Derbyshire, has been working closely in partnership with the Derbyshire BME Forum since 2020 and the successful launch of a pilot for a BME Respite Sitting Service serving families in a variety of communities in Chesterfield and the surrounding area. This partnership has strengthened and continued since this time through efforts to develop support that more closely addresses the needs of individuals within diverse BME communities and with the aim of improving interest and engagement in training and employment opportunities within health and social care. The partnership now includes Links CVS, Derbyshire County Council, DWP and East Midlands Chamber.

As a further initiative to take forward this important work, to reinforce the message of inclusion in all areas of employment and to achieve practical gains in widening participation across our system, we have put together an exciting and innovative event in Chesterfield.

The event is an opportunity for organisations to engage directly with this diverse audience, to provide information on the roles and careers on offer and for individuals from these communities to meet and ask questions of employers as regards their training, employment and career opportunities.

The 'Unlocking New Possibilities' event takes place in the main campus of Chesterfield College on Thursday

13 July from 10am to 2pm and features employers from three key sectors; health and social care, construction and hospitality. There will be representation from a range of support organisations and training providers. There will be several presentations delivered on the day to give further detail on the training and career pathways within the three sectors and a further opportunity for those attending to participate.

Although the event is very much targeted at individuals within BME communities and from the memberships of 11 Community Associations from Chesterfield and the surrounding area, it is of course fully inclusive and will attract attendance from across the whole community.

James Lee, Chief Executive for Links CVS Derbyshire and Chair of the Derbyshire BME Forum said: "This is the first event of its kind being organised in Derbyshire targeting specifically, but not exclusively, members of the diverse BME communities in the area. The aim of the event is to enable members of the local BME communities to discover the different employment and training options available to them. We hope this is the beginning of an important pathway that will open up opportunities for members of the local BME communities to realise their full potential."
